

Picture this....along the river

Take a walk along Oxford's beautiful waterways and retrace the famous boat journey of 4 July 1862 during which Charles Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) first invented the story of 'Alice' and her adventures in Wonderland in 1862. The walk begins at the Thames Path from the southside at Folly Bridge and heads upstream to Godstow (see map page 2).. Do you know why four of the images on the river walk are 'not quite right' in respect of the boat trip of 4 July 1862? A free copy of the Mark Davies's booklet Alice's Oxford On Foot will be posted to the first person to send a correct answer to oxfordtowpathpress@gmail.com. Do NOT send your address with your answer. The winner will be contacted before the end of July.

Folly Bridge

Gasworks Bridge

Osney

Osney Bridge

Rainbow Bridge

Port Meadow

Godstow

Picture this....along the river

To retrace the route of the famous boat journey of 4 July 1862 during which Charles Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) first invented the story of 'Alice' start on the Thames Path the south side of Folly Bridge. Follow the path upstream (marked in red on the map) all the way to Godstow. The route is approx. 3.3 miles

